

Study Textbook Copyright Agreement

Copyright

The copyright of this documentation is held by ©Penny Randall as the author. All rights reserved. No part of this publication may be reproduced, stored in a retrieval system, or transmitted in any form, or by any means including but not limited to; electronically, mechanically, photocopied, recorded or otherwise, without prior written permission, including a signed licence agreement with Penny Randall permitting restricted copying in the United Kingdom or countries other than the United Kingdom. Any person who commits any unauthorised act in relation to this publication may be liable to criminal prosecution and civil claims for damages.

Disclaimers

While every effort and special care has been taken to ensure that information contained in the publication is accurate and correct at the time of publication, changes in circumstances after the date of publication may impact on the accuracy of this information. Laws and regulations are complex and are liable to change; readers should check the current positions with the relevant authorities in the country of use. No warranty is given to the reliability of any information in the documentation.

In order to demonstrate realistic scenarios, fictitious names, business names, email addresses, business addresses and phone numbers etc, have been used in the publication. Any resemblance to any real persons or business is purely coincidence and unintentional.